THREE BISHOPS
MET HERE YESTERDAY.
PHILIPPINE AND AUSTRALIAN
FIELD REVIEWED.

Preacher-Publisher Has Made Money
by Rule of "Sermon on the Mount"— Modernized Dunkard Will Hold Service—Other Church News.

Bishop Brent, the newly-elected Bishop of the Episcopal church to the Philippines, is visiting in this city, and was the principal speaker at a meeting held in Christ Episcopal Church yesterday.

The meeting was presided over by Bishop Joseph H. Johnson of this diocese, who introduced Bishop Brent.

The latter, since his election to the bishopric, has been visiting the principal cities, with the intent of awakening an interest in his new field. Consequently his talk yesterday bore entirely upon his prospective work, and its demands upon the people of the United States.

Bishop Riley, of the diocese of West Australia, who was also present at the meeting, spoke briefly of his work,
which is conducted under the Church of England. Among the interesting statements he made was that his diocese consisted of one million square miles of territory, and had 3000 miles of coast line.

Bishop Brent will preach at St.
Paul's Pro-Cathedral on Sunday morning, and Bishop Riley at St. John's.

PREACHER-PUBLISHER.
Rev. Henry W. Walker, of Des Moines, Iowa, an old preacher, who declares he has applied to business the principles laid down in the "Sermon on the Mount," and made a financial success of it, is now visiting in Los Angeles. His health drove him from the pulpit, and he started the Farmer's Journal, now one of the most widelycirculated farmers' publications in the country. He will preach in the First United Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. His wife is one of the new delegates to the Biennial.

MODERNIZED CHURCH.
Rev. J. W. Cline, of the Brethren Church, on Hancock street, East Los Angeles, will commence a week's revival services Sunday evening. Mr.
Cline, who is a progressive young minister, will also preach on Sunday morning. This is the modernized branch of the Dunkard, or German Baptist Brethren church.

WORLD-FAMOUS DIVINE.
Rev. Dr. A. T. Faxon, a distinguished divine, who occupied the pulpit
of Metropolitan Tabernacle, London,
at the time of the sickness and death of Mr. Spurgeon, and who is now departing on a series of missionary talks throughout this city, will preach in the First Baptist Church, on Flower street, between Seventh and Eighth, on Sunday morning. Following the sermon the communion will be celebrated, and the right hand of fellowship will be extended to over forty new members, received within the past month.

CLUB WOMAN WILL SPEAK.
Mrs. Mary T. Gray, of Kansas City, Mo., will speak at Temperance Temple on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
Subject, "The Value of Boys as Good Citizens." Mrs. Gray was the organizer of the Kansas State Federation of Women's Clubs, twenty-one years ago, and was its first president.

EXTENSION RUSHED THROUGH ON WEST WASHINGTON.
Huntington's Company Puts Large Force at Work Near Roseade Cemetery on Biggest Fiesta Day—Council
Failed to Take Action.

About one hundred and fifty to one hundred and seventy-five laborers in the employ of the Los Angeles Railway Company did not see the parade yesterday. A dozen teams, too, put in their time at more strenuous efforts than the horses that were in the show.

These men and teams were out on West Washington street bright and early in the morning, ripping up the street in front of the gate at the entrance to Roseade cemetery. They kept ripping up the street, then laying the rails and on these the men and teams went down. Then there was a great many rods of West Washington street provided with double-track railroad. The extension would have crossed the hill along the western edge of the cemetery, if the bill had been there, to use a liberalianism. But the cutting down of the hill, a cut about five feet deep, which the men stopped last evening retarded the effects of Huntington's holiday crew of railroad builders and who are as far as West Washington street was stolen
during Fiesta performances.

The city authorities did not seem to have even an inkling of what Muir's gambles was accomplishing until after the festivities were over, and even then only Frank W. Walker, fired for the Third Ward, appears to have been awakened.

Walker went out, and while the railroad builders did things, Walker said things. The doings did not check the sayings, and vice versa. Mr. Walker started for home by supper-time; the workers went on with their work.

Some time ago the railway company asked for a franchise to extend its tracks over this bit of road. That was that because of the petition. The City Council took no action; the railway company did take action.

The cemetery company is interested in this extension of the tracks. The terminus is now directly in front of the gate to the burial ground. At a number of cars stand there,
and block the way. The cemetery company is now directly in front of a quarter of a mile will relieve the pressure at the cemetery gate, what the people are wondering is what Mayor Snyder and the Councilmen will do when they learn how Fiesta day is decorated by Mr. Huntington's men and teams.

HELD POLICE AT BAY.
NEW YORK, May 2.—After shooting a man twice, Peter W. Van Hook, police and a posse at bay for nearly two hours, says a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., report to the Herald. Warranted shots at the crowd, but finally brought to the earth by a boy,
who knew him, and another struck a horse. Warrant was first not paraded before the Russian Catholic Church,
writing a revolver and making remarks about the church. Scott Russell came out, and Warrant began shooting him. One bullet went through Russell's arm and another struck his head. Several persons tried to overpower the infuriated man, but were shoved off, and he ran, shooting at those who pursued.

DAUGHTERS DID HONORS.
Native California Women Entertained
Friends Yesterday—Elks
Stomped Punch Bowl.

La Esperanza Parlor, No. 24, Native
Daughters of the Golden West, extended a hospitable hand to visitors at the Union League club rooms at No.
220 1/2 South Spring street, yesterday afternoon. The use of the quarters was tendered to the parlor by the club for the reception.

The function was designed as a greeting to visiting Native Daughters, the members of the Union League Club,
to the three local parlor of the Native Daughters, the Los Angeles Pioneer and the Elks. The men of the last-named organization were in pleasing evidence.
They browsed among the floral decorations and encouraged by the ladies.
An informal programme was presented in which there was a vocal solo by Miss Etta Jacoby, a recitation by Miss Blackstock and selections by the Elks' Empire City Quartette.

Among the daughters who received
were Mrs. G. M. Giffin, Miss Celia Katz, Mrs. Franc Simpson, Miss Julia Wartenburg, Miss Mina Norton,
Miss Emma Schmitt, Mrs. Sadie L.
Rose, Mrs. R. G. Besenius and Mrs.
McCrory.

A VETERAN RETIRES.
G. W. Burton Sells the Commercial Bulletin to Robert R. McKinney—Has Big Field to Itself.

The Commercial Bulletin, which appeared last night makes editorial announcement to the effect that G. W.
Burton, who has been connected with the trade press in San Francisco and Los Angeles with more or less continuity for the last twenty-five years,
and who has owned and edited the Bulletin for the last seven years, has sold the entire property to Robert R. Mc-Kinney.

Mr. McKinney has been associate editor of the paper for the past six months, and while this is his first connection with newspaper work he is understood to have made rapid progress in grasping the intricacies of the profession. The Commercial Bulletin is the only trade paper published in the Great Southwest, and consequently it has an important field to itself.

TRAIN ROBBERS FOILED.
EUREKA SPRINGS (Ark.) May 2.—
An attempt to hold up the St. Louis Frisco Express was made near Seligman, the first station north of here.
Two men boarded the train there and under cover of darkness crept over the tender, and leveling their revolvers at the engineer, ordered him to reverse his engine. He told them to stop his train before reaching the next station, and the train slowed up at Washburn
the robbers became frightened, and fled into the timber. Two suspects have been arrested at Seligman.

Pictures.
As soon as the full series of twenty-five California views have been put out, the Sunday Times, they will be offered for sale bound in attractive form. The series embrace beautiful views from all over California, showing a variety of scenes, both from the settled sections and from the wooded hills of the mountains. The entire series of the entire series will be sold for 50 cents. Those who desire them should send in their orders as early as possible, as only a limited number of the complete series can be furnished.

Biennial.
Those who have been fortunate enough to attend the Biennial in this city, should not

Here are the particulars about the special skirt sale which begins Saturday morning, and to which we have referred several times. As every item in this special selling is priced at

1-3 to 1-2 off

the regular prices, no woman can afford to overlook the sale.

This is a manufacturer's sample line of undershirts and covers the whole range of desirable garments. Every one is perfect in fit, finish and workmanship, and all are made of thoroughly good materials, embracing silk tulle, mercerized Italian, spun glass, cham-bray, percales, ginghams and grass linens. The price on these

Undershirts

ranges from 50c to $15.00 the garment. All of the leading shades are shown, as well as blacks and black and white stripes.

Wash Skirts 50c to $3.50.
You'll find all styles and colors among the wash skirts. Some are dainty pink and blue lawns prettily trimmed in ruffles and laces, suitable to wear with bright colored spring dresses. Others, for more practical wear, are made of a good quality chambray and percales. The sale price is less than the cost of the raw materials sold here. These skirts will be sold from 50c to $1.50.

Pretty black and white percales
made with graduated accordion pleated, full flare flounce and finished at the top and bottom with narrow black ruching. Former price $1.00.
Reduced to 80c.

Also all black sateen skirts, full width, with 12-inch flounce and small ruffle at the bottom. Sale price 50c.

Another stylish skirt is of black lawn with white polka-dot. It has a 1-4-inch ruffle with two small ones
on the bottom, trimmed in white lace and made with full sweep.
Former price $2.00; now $1.00.

The black mercerized Italian include several different styles, with Spanish flounces, umbrellas, ruffles,
small shirred ruffles and knife pleat-
ing. The material is soft and silky.
Color and luster is guaranteed. One can scarcely distinguish them from the silks. Price from $1.00 to $3.00.

In the $5.00 lot there are some made with 12 inch flounce and three small accordion pleated ruffles set on the bottom, giving a full flare. These skirts are well worth $5.00, special at $3.00.

There are some very pretty pearl gray skirts among them, made with graduated flounce and three small hemstitched ruffles on the bottom. Former price $10.00, sale price $7.50.

Another very pretty silk skirt
is made with an 18 inch umbrella ruffle and fan shaped accordion pleated ruffles set in and finished with silk ruching. Former price was $15.00, sale price $9.00.

Our Choice Confections.

(Removed from Fourth St.)

gowned all in white and wearing picture hats, filled the inside and top seats of the coach, while ten stalwart Native Sons, dressed in red flannel shirts and leggings, acted as escorts. These were the Native Daughters: Mrs. Lou Robinson, Mrs. Lillian Foster, Mrs. Anna Green, Misses Rose McDonald, Ada Bull, Lillian Dempsey, Ollie Massey, Nora Dominick, Mercedes Massey, Lillian Morris, Dottie Schmidt, Anna Schmidt, Bertha Mahstedt, Lillian Weis, C. Formosa, Bertha Brooks, The Outriders were: H. C. Miller, Bert Rogers, Charles Stamps, Jr., S. Roemer, Frank E. Eckley, T. D. Olivera, Edward C. Bodie, Hugh Cooke, J. I. Bodie and I. V. Cooke. Above the float waved the first American flag brought here by the early American pioneers. The flag is the property of Mrs. S. Grant Goucher, and was brought here by way of Nevada by a member of her family. Several of the stars have been shot away. This magnificent turnout was enthusiastically cheered along the entire line by patriotic Californians.

Attention greeted the tallies of the Eboli Club. It was drawn by six magnificent coal-black horses covered with yellow netting. Strangers of yellow satin ribbons were attached to the bridle and the harness with bows of the same golden color. The harness was wrapped in yellow and rosettes of ribbon were fastened to it in many places. The wheels and body of the coach were artistically decorated with wild mustard. Sixteen ladies of the Eboli Club, gowning in distinctive costumes of yellow, and wearing black picture hats occupied the tallies. Each carried an ebony La Toon cane, decorated with a bow of yellow ribbon. Their hair was powdered after the French fashion. The driver wore a Colonial hat, powdered wig and black pumps. On each side of the coach was the word "Eboli" hand-drawn in yellow. Artistically speaking, the Eboli Club carried off the honors of the day as easily as it did the first prize. The ladies who rode were: Mrs. W. T. Lewis, president; Mrs. Sumner P. Hunt, president-elect; Mrs. R. R. Baumgardt, Mrs. W. R. Babcock, Mrs. Lou V. Chapin, Mrs. H. C. Vesale, Mrs. R. W. Burdette, Mrs. S. W. Garretson, Mrs. Aubrey Davidson, Mrs. Charles Ashley, Mrs. A. J. Chandler, Mrs. West Hughes and Misses Agnes Knight, Nellie Strong, Edith Field and Sadie Johnson.

The ladies in the Eboli tallies saluted each motorist and conductor passed on the route, in recognition of their marked courtesy to the club women. The latter are loud in their praise of our street-car employes and members of the local clubs say they are glad to let the men know that their courtesy is appreciated.

A greeting was given by the Eboli ladies to Mrs. Rebecca Douglas Love, the president of the Federation, who declared that never had she seen anything so beautiful as the Eboli float or so glorious in its floral features as the Eboli parade.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette saluted the Eboli women with a shower of carnations as the float passed the Van Nuys. Blue and white in striking contrast was used effectively by the tallies. White daisies covered the body of the vehicle and were set off at the hubs and seats with blue corn flowers. Four white horses bearing long streamers of dark blue ribbon were attached to the tallies. The harness was wrapped in blue cloth. Five outriders dressed in white duck wore banners of blue bearing the letters "T. R." in white. The tallies were filled with boys from the school attired in white suits, white hats and blue polka-dot ties. The boys were: F. G. Adams, P. E. Mayne, R. L. Echen, P. F. English, R. W. Rice, R. L. Gillespie, C. W. Echen, P. R. Bird, B. S. Lerner, G. T. Tripp, G. D. Steel,

A FIESTA TALE OF THE BAMBOO CANE.

She was a dainty little bamboo stick and she lived in a string-tied bundle with a score or more like her in the window of a curio store on Fourth street. In complexion she was a pronounced brunette. Her form was slender and willowy and her neck had a very long and graceful curve. She was decorated with a green belt, a red neck-band and a knot of Fiesta ribbons. She was gay of look and gay of heart, too; for she loved!

He was a proud and loyal American wooden cane. He was dressed entirely in paper stars and stripes. She greatly admired his sturdy, upright figure, and the red lam-o-shanter which crowned his head. For many days she had cast timidous glances across the window toward the bundle where he lived with his brothers, receiving of her own glances so ardent that it was little wonder that her wee heart thumped against her bamboo ribs and strained her green belt. He also wore a Fiesta cravat with an added touch of red, white and blue. His sentiments were broad and national as a man's should be, while hers was the more confined woman's love of her State, her home. Her national expansion of heart had begun when she first saw him in his flag uniform.

One morning, on the first of May, she did not know the date—one day is much like another, when you live in a window-handle—but if she had known, she never could have forgotten it, for on that day occurred the one tragedy of her life. A boy, an insignificant street Arab, was the cruel cause of it. He entered the shop and, with one single, paltry silver dollar, bought her life's idol with all his brothers, and carried him forth to the great city, throwing her without a word.

As he was borne past her he sent her one regard full of melancholy tenderness, and then was gone. Alas! she fainted.

A few hours later a young lady came in and said something to the woman who kept the shop, and with whom little Miss Bamboo had become somewhat acquainted through the medium of a father-dustier. The woman came to the window and lifted up the bundle which contained the sad little stick. The young lady felt each member of the household in turn till she came to Miss Bamboo.

Presently she began to draw her out of the bundle.

"Mercy!" thought the little stick, "I believe I am going to be bought!"

It was true. The young lady was handing the woman 15 cents.

Then, indeed, did Miss Bamboo begin to see life. The busy crowd-busy with its pleasure-interested and amazed her. In fact, she saw so much that her brain reeled, and by night she was too tired to grieve for her lost love.

In the morning the young lady awakened her and they set out once more through the crowded streets. Presently they came to a corner which was so jammed with people that they could go no farther. Then all at once Miss Bamboo felt her way.

She might have broken my neck."

Another and a larger hand picked her up.

"Thank you," said the young lady; but she said it in a tone so low and so apologetic that the little stick became attentive in spite of her nervous state.

"This is the chance I have been waiting for," said the owner of the big hand. "You can't run away from me now, because the crowd is so dense."

Then there were a great many more things said, and finally the young lady confessed that she never wanted to run away again, at which the owner of the big hand seemed very happy.

After the parade had passed and the crowd began to melt away, the Big Hand and the young lady started to cross the street, and as she needed one hand for her dress (the other was now through his arm), she gave him the little stick to carry.

Presently Miss Bamboo, in the midst of her flutter, became aware that something was gently touching her. She had a companion in the big hand. She looked, and nearly expired with joy, for her eyes once more met the ardent glances of the flag-decked cane with the red lam-o-shanter. Tender words and explanations followed. He had been bought on the street that morning by the Big Hand.

"Like the young lady at the crowded corner, little Miss Bamboo was too tightly held to escape, had she wished. Mutual vows were interchanged, and the little bamboo stick and her sturdy lover pressed close together, and mingled their Fiesta ribbons in an ecstasy of bliss.

Painter, E. Holbrook, Messrs. C. Painter, H. E. Earle, Carpenter.

A beautiful creation of white carnations, snap dragons and asparagus ferns was the back of William Bayly, Jr. Four handsome boys with white harness rode the vehicle. Mr. Bayly, Jr. and his companion, Chester Montgomery, were clad in white flannel suits and Panama hats and the Misses Laurine Harding and Edith L. Maurice, who rode in the back, were prettily gowned in white. The turnout was served the first prize, which it received.

The most pretentious float in the parade was entered by the park department. It was a beautiful creation, which represented a secluded nook in one of the city parks. The float was trimmed with silvery-gray, and bore a latticed summer house, in which was hung a beautiful Boston fern.

Kentia palms were placed in the corners of the summer house, the sides of which were trimmed with English ivy. The bed of the float was of cypress relieved by roses, geraniums and genets. Two cornucopias of red geraniums and blue corn flowers. The float easily took the American flag being worked out in red and white, carnations and blue corn flowers. The float was the first prize. The little girls on the float were: Mabel Bennett, Bessie Bennett, Viola Edwards, Lillian Hulsmen, Gertrude Howard, Mary Howard, Marie McKenite, Maud Grosger, Cicely Lewis, Ethel Saxton, Myrtle and Ethel Wilson, Gustie and Ada Paul. The park employes in charge of the float were A. Shields, William Mathews, A. J. Sanor, W. A. Burns, A. R. Loaden, J. McReynolds. Six white horses in red harness with large tissue-paper plumes above their heads drew the float, L. A. Alken driving.

Following the park float in the parade was a two-horse turnout of the Banner School and Church Furnishing Company. A beautiful liberty bell hung above a circle of flags of all the nations, the idea being the dissemination of liberty unto all the earth. Doves of peace with pink streamers preceded the turnout, which was drawn by two bays covered with netting. E. W. Griffith drove and Miss Mamie Kallenbrun and Master Arthur Cross appeared as the "little children that shall lead them."

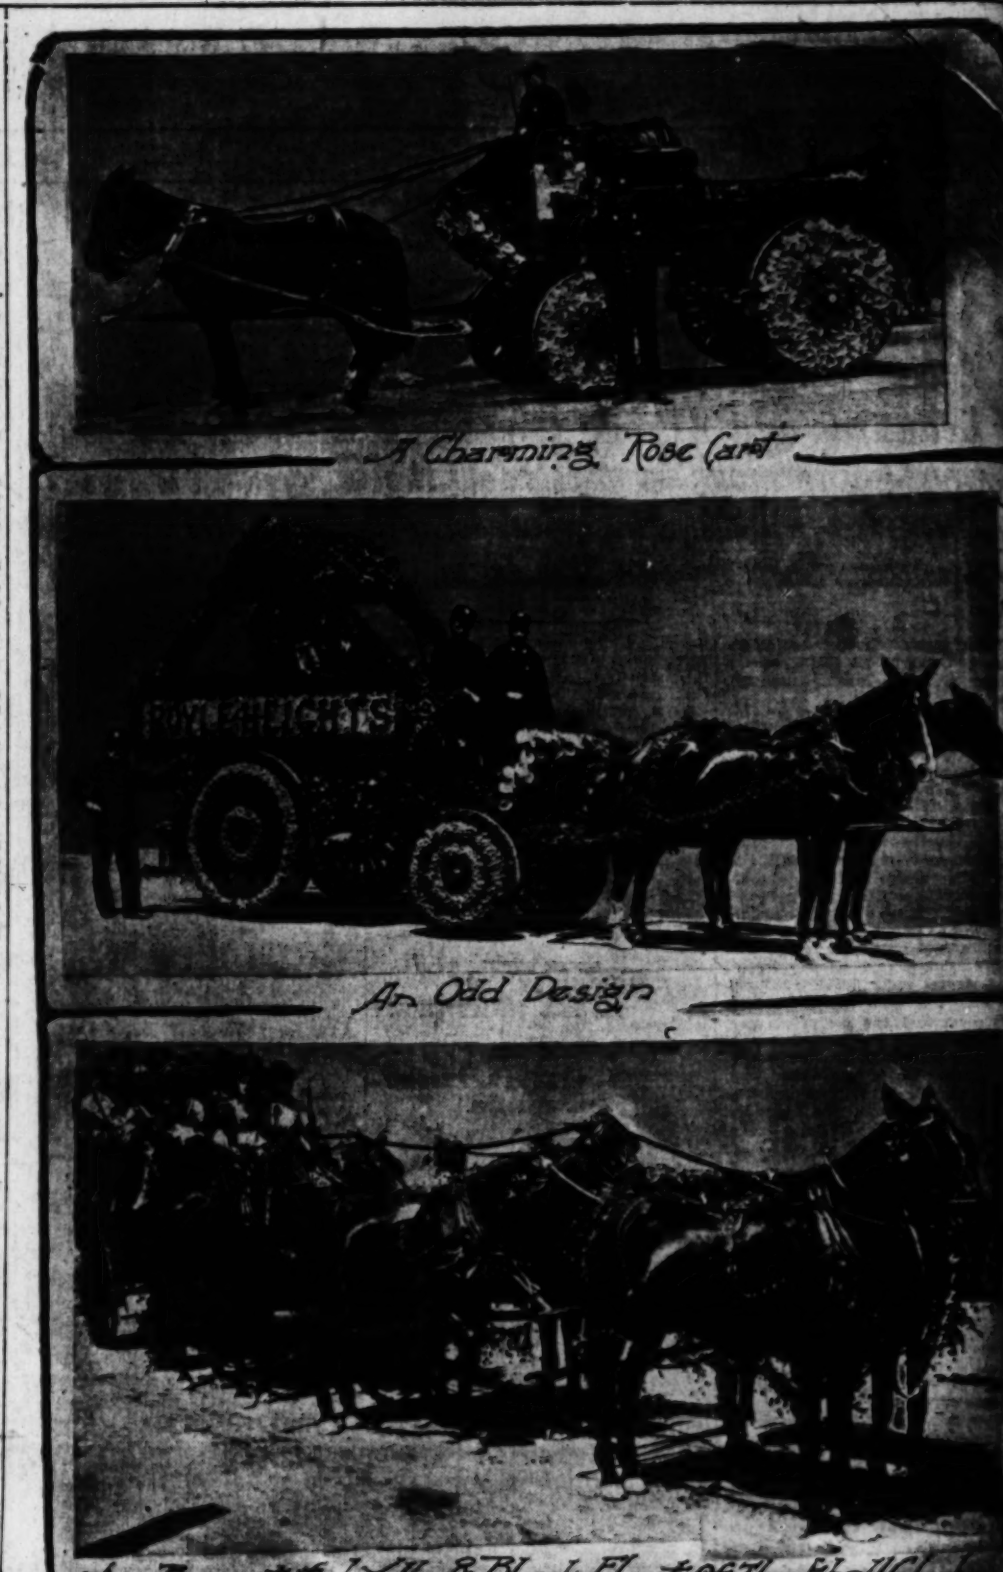

Pretextuous and highly patriotic was the display made by the colored people in the float which was next in line. A large liberty bell was suspended in a belfry of ivy and geraniums. The bell bore the inscription "Phila. MDCCLXIII" and had a crack worked in yellow flowers. The float was drawn by a bed of anise in red and white carnations and blue wild flowers. Mrs. L. Willam, in a spotless white dress, was the queen. She was attended by a small page bearing a shield of yellow marigolds. H. Lee, a typical southern dandy, drove the float, which was drawn by four white horses. J. J. Nelmore, editor of the Eagle, who designed the float, and J. D. Grove and E. W. Walker acted as outriders. They were attired in white flannel suits, straw hats and black riding boots.

SECOND DIVISION. STUNNING CARRIAGES.

No division in the entire parade elicited greater admiration or more prolonged applause. It was beautiful. The display of artistic taste would hardly be surpassed. Nearly every entry was a prize-winner.

The division comprised one tallies and thirteen vehicles of the victoria, stanhope, trap and phaeton sort. The marshal of the division was F. A. Waters, and his aides were mounted Teddy's Terrors, comprising B. S. Hunter, Frank E. Davis, Frank D. Hudson, Charles Squires, Dr. Ralph Skille and E. H. Hutchinson. Following them marched the Los Angeles Military Band.

This was perhaps the most fascinating picture in the division, if not of the entire parade, was the victoria entered by the Friday Morning Club. Its color harmony was perfect, and rightfully was it the pride of every club woman's heart. Its array was marvelous. Three thousand La France roses were used in decoration. To contrast the delicate pink of the rose, there were trimmings of silvery-gray afforded by an abundance of dusty miller imported for the purpose from Northern California. The house carried the entire bed and wheels of the vehicle, whose outriders were the most stylish of the miller. The coach inside was in gray lining, and the garb of the coachman was of the same color. The float was a two-seated bike wagon, decorated in white roses and red geraniums. It was elaborately beautiful. The horses were brown and wore harnesses in white. Those who rode in the carriage were A. Lee, R. H. Wallace, W. M. Walker, R. F. Hunterberger and L. P. Sheldon. There were three outriders on brown horses, that wore heavy gold crowns of beaten gold. They were Willie McCready, Stuart, Salisbury and G. H. Spooner.

There were many entries in the class for one-horse vehicles. The winner of first prize was Mrs. Dolph S. Bassett of Pasadena, whose phaeton was decorated into a beautiful chariot. The floral display was excellent, and combined with a rich abundance of white roses, a purple wild flower (brodiaea) and a setting of smilax. A handsome gray horse wore lavender harness and was driven by Mrs. Bassett, accompanied by whom was Mrs. M. J. Chas.

The second prize was won by Mrs. A. Marquis, who occupied her delightful stanhope with Miss Rose Steidle. The ladies were dressed in white, and carried a white parasol. The wheels of the rig were heavy with smilax, and the box was rich in roses. This entry was little short of first place.

Next in the parade came the trap entered by Mrs. C. Barile. With her rode Miss P. Cohn. The design was a May-pole, mounted by white doves. The flowers were calla lilies, and there were lots of smilax.

The trap of W. J. Thompson, colored, was occupied by Mr. Thompson, wife and two sons, Freddie and Stephen. Hundreds of callas were used in the decoration. The horse was white and with a profusion of wild mustard and white satin ribbon thrown in for good measure.

One of the prettiest stanhopes in all this class was entered by Miss Lilly Olshausen, and was a dream in sweet peas. It was a work of surpassing good taste. There were roses of red and green and was furnished by fern and smilax. On the seat with pretty Miss Olshausen was Miss Marion Churchill. They were dressed in white and carried a white parasol. Their pretty brown pony was proud in its harness of pink.

Elaborate in red was the striking stanhope of Mrs. W. W. Fariss. That it failed to take a prize was often remarked. The flowers used were red and white peas. The horse was a spirited animal, wearing a lattice-worked blanket or netting of red satin ribbon. The ladies—Mrs. Fariss and Mrs. Kate McAlbin—wore white dresses, and over their laps was a robe of red ribbon arranged in a lattice. They carried a parasol of white, covered with little bows of red ribbon.

The fourth prize of the above class was won by C. A. Sumner, in a speedily varied rig, with the richness of red geraniums, smilax and ferns being used for a background. The seat was occupied by Mrs. H. G. Oils, Mrs. A. H. Brockway, New York, and Mrs. Ella Peattie, Chicago.

On the second in the two-horse trap class was won by Miss Jessie Hartwell. The rig was a creation in roses, a profusion of smilax and asparagus fern—all decoration being carried out in white and green. The harness of the white horse was covered with sprigs of asparagus over white covering, and the lines were white ribbons. The wheels of the rig resembled many-pointed stars in smilax. The ribbons were held by Miss Hartwell, and by her side rode Miss Zaides Hartwell.

The Arcadian Club was the winner of the third prize. The vehicle was a two-seated bike wagon, decorated in white roses and red geraniums. It was elaborately beautiful. The horses were brown and wore harnesses in white. Those who rode in the carriage were A. Lee, R. H. Wallace, W. M. Walker, R. F. Hunterberger and L. P. Sheldon. THIRD DIVISION. THE CHINESE.

In all its oriental splendor, this new division was undoubtedly the most gorgeous spectacle in yesterday's parade. Precious banners, heavy gold and silver designs; robes of brilliant colors; fastidious and beautiful dancing and magnificent sparkling gems, and then the terrible dragon, like a creature born of the underworld, long sinuous and convulsive, with a red tongue lolling in bloody jaws; all these in the rich variety of coloring that only the orientals can produce, made a feast for the eyes bewildering and magnificent.

In making this seven-hundred-foot piece of effect, thousands of Chinese men and women began years ago in the peaceful bazaar of Canton, and the dragon, and day after day through many years, they were employed the gold and silver threads in startling contrasts and blended perfect harmony.

The colors were so rich they seemed to sparkle and scintillate with rays of jeweled light. There were flashes of gold, red, blue, green, yellow, purple, and every color of the rainbow, and then the dragon, and day after day through many years, they were employed the gold and silver threads in startling contrasts and blended perfect harmony.

flow shroud, with a lavender cast over and around his waist and trailing to the ground a broad sash, with a delicate edge of silver. His robes were of silk so rich that they flashed. Twenty Chinese students, representing the literati, were marched solemnly in a column two abreast, and each bore a staff with large figures and designs on the top. The latter represented some phase or division of Chinese lore; but only the most learned were able to decipher their characters. Their robes were of blue, green, pink, lilac, salmon and crimson, and the shades were not less varied in color. Then there were some more banners, representing the Chinese, and the parade was not less varied in color. The sunlit rich in crimson and blue, each relieved with a slash of emerald and brightened with the purple and gold and the pink of the lotus.

Thirty-four boys and girls, native Californians, ranging from 5 years to 15, looked solemnly through the crowd's eyes at the throngs on the sidewalks from a float made gay with hundreds of red and white roses. On the float of roses raised above the float the greeting "Hail Noble Women." There were several musical features, such as the Chinese, and the parade was not less varied in color. The sunlit rich in crimson and blue, each relieved with a slash of emerald and brightened with the purple and gold and the pink of the lotus.

Perhaps the most interesting of these ray gleams and snatches from the Fairy Kingdom were the three historical floats. Four started, but the one representing a racing boat of the Chinese, with two aristocratic maidens for a cargo, met with a mishap shortly before the parade, and the three that did appear were creatures of an artist that must have had a rain-god and all the story of a tropical sunset to copy from.

The first showed a boy standing in a four-wheeled car holding a golden wand in both hands. The second of this, and supported by two attendants, was a young maiden gracefully erect. The maiden represented the Chinese Sue Kuo, who lived about 1300, during the Sung "na yu" history has it that she had a dream husband, who was a prince, and she captured him.

After making the ruler of this captive, the warrior fell in love with her, and she was his queen. The boy wore a long, black beard, the character of an old man, who was the character of the prince's counselor. He was crowned with a victor of beater, and around this was a circle of red in intricate designs. His purple robe was spangled with jewels, and the shoulders were a radiant cape of green. The Princess wore under pantaloons, and her crown was a crown of spangled armlets. Her crown was a crown of spangled armlets. Her crown was a crown of spangled armlets.

On the same scale of splendor was the next float, which represented an historical event in the Ming dynasty, which furnished about the year 1100, the champion acrobats of the Chinese father and daughter, are in the act of challenging all comers.

This was represented by a handsome boy in the character of the father, who held outstretched in his hands a spear, and his daughter, a charming girl, who was in a challenging attitude. The boy wore a silver crown and a robe of green, with Chinese animals and a crown of gold on the shoulders. The maiden had a model husband, and a crown of gold on the shoulders. The last float showed a heroine of the Hong dynasty, which flourished about the year 1800. This maiden went to war with a large army to assist her father, who was being pressed. She had captured the heir apparent of the enemy's throne, and the Princess was bound to marry him. The idea of the costumes used in carrying out this historical representation was very similar to the ones preceding the maiden standing erect on a spear.

THE LONG SNAKE. The huge grinning serpent, 270 feet long, which the Chinese call the "Yin Yang" snake, was a familiar feature on the parade. It was a long, sinuous, and convulsive, with a red tongue lolling in bloody jaws. It was a long, sinuous, and convulsive, with a red tongue lolling in bloody jaws. An Inquisitive Concert on the official programme, President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the State University will be one of the speakers at the educational session this morning. He is well known as one of the most pleasing speakers in the West. Miss Jane Addams of the famous "Hull House," the strange Chicago entertainer, will present "The Social Waste of Child Labor."

Mrs. Florence Kelly, who has won renown in New York and Chicago as a civil service and labor reformer, will give the report of the Industrial Committee.

Mrs. Linda Hull Larned, who will present "Household Economics," has devoted five years to this practical branch of education, and is national authority on domestic science.

The press session is under direction of Mrs. Ella W. Peattie, journalist of ability and long experience, and the speakers are well-known newspaper writers.

Mrs. J. P. Sartori, the local "club-house" builder, will represent the Friday Morning Club in the symposium on "How We Did It."

Dr. Yarnet Kim, the newest of new women, in that she is probably the only Chinese woman physician in the world, will not be present. Her paper on "Glass Mosaics" will be read by Katherine Hall of San Francisco.

DENISON AND BURDETTE NOW THE TICKET.

FIRST PLACE FOR NEW YORKER, CALIFORNIAN SECOND.

Paasdena Candidate Formally Withdraws from Presidential Race—Nominating Committee Practically Uninstructed—Other Political Matters.

Mrs. Dimas T. S. Denison, New York, for president.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, California, for vice-president.

These names will head the ticket Thursday next at the election of officers of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, unless there should be a decided change in the situation.

The most significant development of the day was the withdrawal of Mrs. Burdette from the contest for the presidency. With Mrs. Denison out of the running, as was supposed, Mrs. Burdette had been urged by her friends throughout the country to stand for the nomination, and her candidacy was in high favor until the announcement came that Mrs. Denison would how to the pleasure of the convention. Then Mrs. Burdette decided to withdraw in the interest of harmony.

When a Times reporter saw Mrs. Burdette yesterday and asked her what she would do in view of Mrs. Denison's avowed candidacy, she replied:

"Now that Mrs. Denison has announced her candidacy through the columns of the press, I wish it understood, in all sincerity, that I leave her pathway to the presidency of the General Federation, so far as I am concerned, unobstructed."

"At the beginning of the General Federation presidential campaign, I said, in private, and in the columns of the press, that I was not a candidate."

"I am not a candidate," she said, "and I am not a candidate."

"I am not a candidate," she said, "and I am not a candidate."

felt that their first duty was toward Mrs. Denison of their own State, considered the logical candidate by reason of her position as first vice-president of the general body, and naturally their choice because she comes from their State, where she is prominent as president of the Sorosis and one of the leaders in the federation movement.

Other States held committee meetings yesterday afternoon, at which they chose members of the Nominating Committee, but in almost every case these members were uninstructed. At the California meeting there was a lively contest for the place between Mrs. Emma M. Greenleaf of Redlands and Mrs. L. L. Dunbar of the Sorosis.

At the Illinois meeting Mrs. T. P. Stanwood, president of the State Federation, was elected to the Nominating Committee, she, too, was uninstructed. The Illinoisans had a lengthy discussion of the "color line," and after listening to the reading of the compromise resolution in favor of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, and Michigan, as follows:

"Only such membership tests shall be applied to clubs asking for membership in the General Federation as are applied to clubs seeking membership in the federation of a State in which such club is located, except as otherwise provided by the laws of the federation."

Mrs. Stanwood is very anxious that no action be taken in the convention that will force the Southern clubs from the General Federation.

"PUBLIC INVITED TO TODAY'S ART SESSION."

SYNAGOGUE MEETINGS WILL BE OPEN TO ALL.

Programme of Unusual Interest to Be Presented This Afternoon—Noted Women and Live Subjects for Meeting Tuesday Night.

Today for the first time the general public is invited to attend one of the sessions of the club women. The afternoon session of the Synagogue, corner of Ninth and Hope streets, will be open to all. The admission to the auditorium will be by ticket as usual. From now on it is planned to produce programmes simultaneously at the Auditorium and Synagogue, which will give ample room.

The open session at the Synagogue

will begin at 2:30 o'clock p.m., with Mrs. Denison presiding, and Mrs. Albert Brockway acting as chairman of the art session. The programme is of unusual interest, the subjects being as follows: "Progress Made in the Applied Arts by Women," "Outdoor Improvement for Home and School," "Photography," "Bookbinding," "Keramics," and "Glass Mosaics." The essayists include Mrs. Herman J. Hall, Chicago; Mrs. Davis, Los Angeles; Mrs. L. F. Chapin, Pasadena; and Miss Katherine Hall, San Francisco.

ADDITIONAL TREAT.

An additional programme has been arranged for the general public next Tuesday evening, May 5, at 8 p.m., in the Synagogue. At the instance of

"You see I take it for granted that the floral parade was arranged for our especial benefit. The feeling of good fellowship that is evident among the people of California is far too little known in the United States, although it is prevalent abroad. Its growth is a thing to be wished for, and it is delightful to find so well developed away out here on the Pacific Coast."

"Everybody seems so cordial and so happy. The genuine holiday spirit was in the air, and the festival, in my estimation, was far grander than the Mardi Gras of New Orleans, with which people of the South and East are familiar."

ADMIRING THE HORSES.

"It would be impossible to say what particular feature impressed me most, but I must be pardoned for saying that my admiration was especially for the fine horses. I have the southern woman's inherent love for equines, and I was pleased to see so many fine animals in the parade. Why the fire department horses of Los Angeles are simply superb. Such grand, noble animals, and so well groomed, surely Los Angeles must be proud of them."

Another thing that impressed me was the almost entire absence of advertising features that usually mar similar fetes.

Say to the people of Los Angeles, won't you, that they have our most heartfelt thanks for the honor and the privilege that have bestowed on us."

Others of the visiting club women were equally hearty in their praise of the floral parade, which was a topic of general discussion at general headquarters yesterday. They evidently never had seen so many beautiful and the hospitality of Nature and the hospitality of Los Angeles were commented on in lavish terms.

EXCELLENT ADDRESS BY GREAT ECONOMIST.

PROF. GUNTON OF NEW YORK TALKS TO WOMEN.

Intimate Friend and Adviser of the President. He Speaks as an Authority on Sociology—Theme: "Association and Progress."

Instructive and vital to a marked degree was the address delivered last night by Prof. George Gunton of New York before the General Federation at Simpson's Auditorium. The speaker, not, however, before the large audience had been favored with two excellent musical numbers by a young ladies' orchestra, under the leadership of Harley Hamilton. The second selection came by way of an urgent encore.

Mrs. Lowe, in her introduction, referred to Prof. Gunton as "the best authority on social economics in America."

As the distinguished scholar stepped forward, he was greeted with prolonged applause. He is president of the "Recreation and Out of Working Hours," Mrs. Florence Kelly, New York; "Recreation and Out of Working Hours," Mrs. Jane Addams; "The Shopper and the Clerk," Mrs. Frederick Nathan, New York.

Programme of Unusual Interest to Be Presented This Afternoon—Noted Women and Live Subjects for Meeting Tuesday Night.

Today for the first time the general public is invited to attend one of the sessions of the club women. The afternoon session of the Synagogue, corner of Ninth and Hope streets, will be open to all. The admission to the auditorium will be by ticket as usual. From now on it is planned to produce programmes simultaneously at the Auditorium and Synagogue, which will give ample room.

The open session at the Synagogue

will begin at 2:30 o'clock p.m., with Mrs. Denison presiding, and Mrs. Albert Brockway acting as chairman of the art session. The programme is of unusual interest, the subjects being as follows: "Progress Made in the Applied Arts by Women," "Outdoor Improvement for Home and School," "Photography," "Bookbinding," "Keramics," and "Glass Mosaics." The essayists include Mrs. Herman J. Hall, Chicago; Mrs. Davis, Los Angeles; Mrs. L. F. Chapin, Pasadena; and Miss Katherine Hall, San Francisco.

ADDITIONAL TREAT.

An additional programme has been arranged for the general public next Tuesday evening, May 5, at 8 p.m., in the Synagogue. At the instance of which attempt to express my appreciation of the beautiful present that I have been my delight to view today, but I believe I express the sentiments of all women of the convention when I say the hospitality of Los Angeles, such expressed, is the handsomest tribute ever paid to us in all our travels, including all previous conventions.

"You see I take it for granted that the floral parade was arranged for our especial benefit. The feeling of good fellowship that is evident among the people of California is far too little known in the United States, although it is prevalent abroad. Its growth is a thing to be wished for, and it is delightful to find so well developed away out here on the Pacific Coast."

"Everybody seems so cordial and so happy. The genuine holiday spirit was in the air, and the festival, in my estimation, was far grander than the Mardi Gras of New Orleans, with which people of the South and East are familiar."

ADMIRING THE HORSES.

"It would be impossible to say what particular feature impressed me most, but I must be pardoned for saying that my admiration was especially for the fine horses. I have the southern woman's inherent love for equines, and I was pleased to see so many fine animals in the parade. Why the fire department horses of Los Angeles are simply superb. Such grand, noble animals, and so well groomed, surely Los Angeles must be proud of them."

Another thing that impressed me was the almost entire absence of advertising features that usually mar similar fetes.

Say to the people of Los Angeles, won't you, that they have our most heartfelt thanks for the honor and the privilege that have bestowed on us."

Others of the visiting club women were equally hearty in their praise of the floral parade, which was a topic of general discussion at general headquarters yesterday. They evidently never had seen so many beautiful and the hospitality of Nature and the hospitality of Los Angeles were commented on in lavish terms.

EXCELLENT ADDRESS BY GREAT ECONOMIST.

PROF. GUNTON OF NEW YORK TALKS TO WOMEN.

Intimate Friend and Adviser of the President. He Speaks as an Authority on Sociology—Theme: "Association and Progress."

Instructive and vital to a marked degree was the address delivered last night by Prof. George Gunton of New York before the General Federation at Simpson's Auditorium. The speaker, not, however, before the large audience had been favored with two excellent musical numbers by a young ladies' orchestra, under the leadership of Harley Hamilton. The second selection came by way of an urgent encore.

Mrs. Lowe, in her introduction, referred to Prof. Gunton as "the best authority on social economics in America."

As the distinguished scholar stepped forward, he was greeted with prolonged applause. He is president of the "Recreation and Out of Working Hours," Mrs. Florence Kelly, New York; "Recreation and Out of Working Hours," Mrs. Jane Addams; "The Shopper and the Clerk," Mrs. Frederick Nathan, New York.

"COLOR LINE" DISCUSSED.

At the Illinois meeting Mrs. T. P. Stanwood, president of the State Federation, was elected to the Nominating Committee, she, too, was uninstructed. The Illinoisans had a lengthy discussion of the "color line," and after listening to the reading of the compromise resolution in favor of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, and Michigan, as follows:

"Only such membership tests shall be applied to clubs asking for membership in the General Federation as are applied to clubs seeking membership in the federation of a State in which such club is located, except as otherwise provided by the laws of the federation."

Mrs. Stanwood is very anxious that no action be taken in the convention that will force the Southern clubs from the General Federation.

"PUBLIC INVITED TO TODAY'S ART SESSION."

SYNAGOGUE MEETINGS WILL BE OPEN TO ALL.

DR. HARRIS

SEVENTEEN YEARS A SPECIALIST FOR MEN.

Nine Years in Los Angeles.

No Money Required.

Any reliable man can secure treatment at my office without paying in advance. I do not ask any one to pay me faster than his case shows actual benefit and improvement.

"Weakness."

The common practice is to prescribe stimulating drugs in cases of vital weakness without regard to the cause of the trouble. Every patient should understand that the effect of such treatment is not only temporary but injurious. Every case of weakness has some local condition which must be removed and cured before power is restored. Nearly all of my applicants for treatment tell the story of their experience with stomach drugging, electric belts, etc., which have always failed. I have given attention to the study and treatment of the local conditions which are the direct cause of vital weakness. With nine years in Los Angeles the older readers will realize that my announcements and style of advertising have been continually copied by others; this I can not prevent, but to those seeking reliable and successful treatment I wish to say my mode of examination, diagnosis, treatment and cure are in my own keeping and can not be copied. Cases of weakness which I treat are invariably cured by finding and removing the local disturbing cause by scientific treatment.

I Can Cure Every Case of Varicocoele.

Thousands of men are afflicted with varicocoele. Most of them have tried unsuccessful treatment, and are of course prohibited against any and all who pretend to cure a case of varicocoele.

When I say I can cure every case of varicocoele without failure, and do it without pain or use of the knife, it, of course, sounds just like thousands of other statements made in advertisements, and for that reason I go further than anyone else and say that I will show any number of cured cases among the best, most valuable men in Los Angeles. Any man who earnestly desires relief from this annoying and grave condition, which continually saps life vitality, can, by calling at my office, secure a list of names of prominent men in the city who have been cured of varicocoele by my treatment. He can also get a free examination and description of how I cure varicocoele in FIVE DAYS, never to return.

Disorders of the Prostate Gland.

I have found in a practice of seventeen years devoted exclusively to Nervous Disorders of the Male, the most frequent cause is a Chronic Inflammation of the Prostate Gland, the center of the reproductive system, which is very rich in nerves. When the termination of these nerves is kept in a constant state of excitement by a chronic inflammatory process, it is very clear that by transmission of this irritation to other nerves, the patient may be subject to various phenomena of the most varied character. They are not WEAKNESSES, but symptoms of the inflammation.

The most frequent cause of this inflammatory condition is contracted disorders or early dissipation and excesses. The main object is to reduce the swollen or inflamed gland.

By my local OZONIZED method I remove pathological products, stimulate the tissue and cause absorption of the inflammatory exudations by means of the increased circulation in the vessels and glands.

Contracted Disorders.

Includes specific blood poison, inflammation, stricture, discharge, local ulcers and swellings. I have used various patients against unreliable methods for treating this most important class of disorders. The cheapest and best course is to employ a genuine, able specialist who has the ability and experience necessary to do for each case exactly the right thing at the right time. I have spent seventeen years at this work and when I take a case to treat I charge a reasonable fee for my work, furnish all necessary medicine free, treat the case thoroughly, and guarantee complete cure. I insist on removing every particle of disease, both constitutionally and locally, before any patient is discharged.

I have published a treatise on men's disorders, with beautiful colored plates, which will be mailed free of charge on application.

My office and hospital occupy 32 rooms and are equipped with every known appliance for treating my line of diseases.

I treat all my patients myself. My diplomas and certificate from the State Board of California hang on the walls of my office, where everybody can see them. I advertise under my own name and am always in my office during business hours.
